The story's end winds down and collapses as does the vast majority of Emil's loftier tales of misadventure but in this case it has more to do with a gag and restraining order just released by the Southern District Court brought by all those very expensive, angry lawyers that represent Hell Management Inc and/or Greater Heaven Enterprises. This means that any of Emil's journal(s) or telex messages can not be utilized to finish this tale of Emil's bold tale of an Insurrection in Hell.

DAY FOUR:

"The Truth is the Truth…"

Here we are in day four of what is turning out to be a very bad dog-n-pony, two-step hustle of our fake tour of a fake hell.

I really hate to say it but… as they say here in hell, "The truth is the truth…" Plain and simple!

I really expected more than a movie prop version of hell…now granted they spent a pretty penny of making it seem real and having worked in AI and having been there at the birth of virtual reality (back in the day),

I understand the time, effort and serious cash that someone laid out to convince us that this was really hell.
In this grand sleight of hand, smoke-n-mirrors and diversion, you can't take away from the fact that nothing added up.
It was their briefings on their over-the-top numbers that proved to be their downfall.
The main question is why?

I am still not sure what they are hiding but, it must be worth all the time and effort that they invested in creating this fake hell.
I have only one more day and a wake-up to get to the bottom of this grand psych operation.
Why do I care?
I don't know other than the entrepreneur in my that is always sniffing out a new opportunity to make a decent sawbuck by getting ahead of the crowd and seeing something that they might having been taught from a youngster to fear this place? I was prepped like most of my generation (from the youngest age) to dream of being a part of some grand army of Christian Soldiers marching off to destroy pure evil…much as those poor, misguided Hitler Youth had an instilled dream of liberating the Ruskies from the godless, debaucheries of the demonic Communists and their secret police.

Like the Children's Crusade of 1943 to Liberate those poor, mistreated Ruskies; we, too, were taught that this was the ultimate battle between good and evil.

To be truthful, this is more of my motivation here even more so than an economic windfall that I might have sniffed out and I am pissed that everything that I held has true might have been a lie that we were catfished with by an older generation just trying to scam us out of our ever-shrinking paychecks.
Maybe, just maybe, them damn Ruskies were not demons but people just like us that had been scared shitless of the demonic west trying to destroy them or steal all the nation's many resources by their own variation of the Carnival, midway hustlers who seem to have conned their way into power in both nations. Living well into this new 21st Century, I now believe that this is true and I am amazed how the Russian People have now become a shining beacon of true Christian, family values which are the true core of what a real vision of democracy (little “d”) was meant to be.

over and over again by (what I now believe to be) next generation AI Talking Heads. Why do I believe this? Simplify because no real CIS Human could continually and so passionately scream at the top of the lungs such utter nonsense that so seeming their scriptwriters so blatantly ripped off from 1944-45 Germany Ministry of Propaganda press released (cleverly updated to new names and current events) without a studder or having to avoid looking you directly in the eye.

OPPS!

Off track again…forgive me! Now back to the rest of the Hell story that you came to hear.

What were the clues?

The clues were there from the get go if you were looking closely or started to ask questions.

The nervousness of everyone to answer even the most harmless questions, the panic that they expressed when you pressed them for any answers and their willingness to use violence to stop you from asking anymore or looking too closely at the details.

Seems that question askers are very unwelcome guests.
This all leads back to the central question(s) of "who pays for all this?" and "Who is really in charge?"
The answer on the first, I don't have right now but depending on who is in charge, I think that the answer is no one.
If there really was a Satan, then, it seems he disappeared a long time ago but, not without building up a very efficient collection of faceless civil servants and socialist accountants to run the daily operations here.

I do admit that this is rather impressive in itself and that this section of Hell still runs with a high level of efficacy.
This is a rue credit to the man or the group of men (heaven and hell…are male dominate…I'm just saying…it is in all their literature… complain to their HR Offices) who set this in motion.

The lack of a physical presence does lead to endless volumes speculation as to where he is and when he left…
I don't know but, it is very clear that he cleared out of hell a long time ago.
Maybe he died?
Maybe he is hold-up in a penthouse somewhere in this hotel?
I seriously doubt it as there isn't a level of security that would need to be present if he was here…as I can go must everywhere without being challenged…it is this level of disconcert that first clued me in on the fact that the Big Guy is AWOL.

As a skilled journalist observer (trained as I often mention by the Columbia School of Journalism's Home Study Course) who has spent a great deal of the last few days mucking about in the back halls of this grand hotel, chatting with many of the staff and locals; I clearly see a management system fraying around its edges with the high level of indecisiveness with disturbing signs of an upcoming breakdown of its chain of command to deal with even the simplest issues… like unfriendly Cabana Boys…

The second clue was that there are no signs of growth, no expansion (other than in the growing number of people they claim to be showing up at the processing center daily) of the core facilities that would reflect several millions of years "still in business at the same location."

It would have been different if we had seen massive cities, factories…homeless tents. Shit, I would have been convinced even had they shown us the gigantic pits of big, hell fires or their famed waterboarding boutiques… Waterboarding Boutiques? OPPS! Those are owned by CIS Humans and generously funded by an assortment of the world's various alphabet agencies as it seems that Hell outlawed waterboarding due to the current drought(s) here in Hell or so, I was told in an off-the-record interview with one of our travel guides that was well into a bottle of good, imported Cuban Rum.

I mean, I truly wanted to believe that this all might merely be (in some part) my own misunderstand as to this not being the real Hell in order to desperately hold on to the system of believe that I had been raised with – not unlike those Hitler Youth who held on to the believes that had been instilled in them (too) at an early age and that they maintained way into their senior years or even beyond.

Just saying that even the sight of a single I-HOP would have been enough to settle this question for me.

There wasn't a single one to be found and trust me, I did look!

By the management's failure to redress any of these expressed concerns (cause-n-effect) might lead even the most unconcerned tourist into wondering about the bigger issues...

"Where is the real Hell?"
"Where is Satan?"
Now, don't let me get too deep into the weeds with the next logical question:
"Where are all those millions of people (their daily production numbers, remember?) really going or have they gone to?"
Remember, Campers, this is merely a transit camp (although humongous) that is still finite as we can see the outer security walls at the far end of the valley…
In fact, I am broadcasting now from the upper deck of the Hell Grand Hotel – which, in retrospect, they should have marked off limits but, they forgot to rope it off or put up a sign of "No Entrance!"

Regular listeners to my podcasts know me well enough that even if there had been a big sign, I would have found a way out onto this rather nice patio here…
Those who really have followed my adventure would know that I would have got here even if I had to climb over the rope to get here.

So, in that way the local management can't hold any single Cabana Boy at fault for me being here regardless of how many dinars that I might have paid him for access.
From the pictures from yesterday's podcast, even Little Stevie Wonder could see the truth that there is no way that this transit camp could possibly intake the kind of numbers that they presented in their background briefings.
There is just no way!
It is way too small to handle anywhere near that volume of clients and not have people living in tents out in the transit camp's numerous court yards.

No tents…Not shanty town next to the gates…You saw the pictures! Did you see any?
This does beg the bigger, question that if the Hell Management number are even partially true:
"Where are all those people going?"
I ask this question due to my observation(s) of the operation of the transit camp over the past several days and this leads me to openingly challenge and ask "Are there really people going through the transit camp?"

Seriously this leads us in a Lion King "Circle of Life" conversation with any rational, free-thinking CIS Human, Demon and/or for that matter any surviving Fallen Angel over the propaganda logic of all this: "If someone is willing to take the time and the expense to build this showcase, why would they NOT be willing to hire a shit full of extras to play the part of people…?" See, there is no end to the questions that come from Hell's junior management team trying to walk away from all of my "shitty questions" (their definition not mine…thank you, kindly!) as they try to stonewall or later, bribe me with a selection of fine art prints from Little Joey Buyhim's boy Dehunter and even a burner phone number to then Benny and Jerry's in Delaware (a well-know hair sniffing hangout venue for Little Joey himself).

I have started to question and pay closer attention to the demons of Hell.
With certain exceptions (Cabana Boys come to mind – you remember, the ones who beat the crap out of me for using the "D" word), none of these demons seem that bad…none of them are scary!
I haven't run into my uncle or any of his motorcycle gang buds…who really could be scary!

You would figure that they would have them doing security or (better yet) corporate enforcement of the WOOKIE rules.
That's another issue…
The WOOKIE rules of hell…
Are there any such rules other than in the whispered urban legends amongst the hotel's staff?
Are there, really, any such thing and how are they enforced without some heavy-duty muscle to keep everyone in line?
The only rules that I have

"Jeder braucht ein bisschen Haut in dieser Revolution"

seen are not to use the "D" word and to not ask questions (apparently, I have become a true sinner here in hell…but…I wonder what my punishment is?).

That's it.

Is it that here are no rules to be enforced or is it that there is no one with the power to inform them if there are truly anything resembling "Law-based Order" here in this fake Hell?

You would figure that they would have rules against everything (No wait! That is in heaven) …

I mean they arrest you for bringing bubble gum into Singapore and will (seriously) punish you for littering…
Contrast that with here…there is no one to enforce any of the rules and this goes to prove that no one is really in charge and no one is calling the shots…
And, it seems that it might have been this way for quite a while, from the looks of it!
It just doesn't smell right as even when they were beating me about using the "D" word, they were NOT explaining in great detail as to why they were beating me.

Sounds like a really little point but, it is a major slip up…because truly evil people love to educate you as to why you are forcing them to punish you…
Only a truly rank amateur would fail to do this…it is in the "Bully" Handbook on pages #3-4 (so it is an important point being so close to the front of this universal handbook.

Such a seeming lapse in established "Bully" Protocol would be what you would expect from decent, nice guy being forced to put the hurt on you and not liking it or getting into it, that they would want to get this ugly matter done and over with as fast as possible…then move on…forget and forgive…it is the Godly way to do, isn't it? Well! Regardless of your opinion that this is a stretch, you see what I mean don't you?
Hopefully my reporting is starting to show you where I am going with this?

In fact, any truly evil guy worth his salt would have taken his own sweet time and would be on me like a suit.
Then, as established protocol dictates, they would follow my beating up with more threats and double or triple down on their bullying every time they saw me…
In fact, they are required to do just that and the handbook does encourage the "Bullyer" go out of their way to do so to the "Bulliee."

Again, to my many points of conjecture, there are many things very wrong with all of this!

Trust me, after nearly a week here, the collected evidence leads me to believe that those so-called meanest of the mean, demon's demons are not that at all and I have come to believe that these guys might well be really angels not having any connection to Hell's true demon elite.

If you are willing to keep an open mind on this notion, let me further stretch the envelope of investigative journalism to ask "Does hell still have any true demons?"

"Jeder braucht ein bisschen Haut in dieser Revolution"

OMG! Lord have mercy!
If these are hell's demons then heaven surely doesn't need an army of CIS Humans, Christian Soldiers to take the field against these poor slobs…
If these are the best, then, the battle would not last long enough for the Christian Soldiers to suit up.
I think my uncle, his biker buds and I (see I can use proper pronouns when though they wouldn't) could be running this place within a week.

This is a clear example of how even the best organization can slip once the driving force of the movement disappears?

Well, it happened in my world too…

For various reasons…various causes but, the core reason keeps coming back to the fact that the socialist accountants and faceless clerks of Ahriman took such easy control of the Coalition of Willing (Western G7) Nations with only a small helping hand of the marketing of his WEF Goonie Advance Team.

Even before that, it happened to Rome…
Not to mention Ancient China (a lesson that they seem to have learned and will not repeat as they become a superpower, again!).
Again, my only goal is to discover the truth!
Why?

I didn't have any strong beliefs but, I also said that I am a person who sees opportunity when it bites me on the butt…
It is now very clear that there is money to be made here!
NO! I'm not talking about getting those Calvin Kline blue jeans back from hell immigration and selling them for a killing…

myself a cut of the action on whatever scam they are running.
I'm sorry!
That is who I truly really am!
I am a true believer in "Predatory" Capitalism – just as long as I am not on the receiving end of it.
My second goal in my last full day here is to do everything in my power to track down my uncle and all of his biker pals as I may need a little muscle to help me out…I need "a mighty fist to scare all these fake demons and send them

Yes! I do plan to cut my uncle's crew in on a piece of the action as I do believe that everyone needs some skin in this revolution game - well, Bubba, maybe not a full percentage of the concessions or the port-a-toilet revenues (which could be massive if the Hell Management numbers truly are correct)

I can give them back their Harleys and let them do what they do best…scare the shit out good guy demons (angels?) and allow them the free use of their best God given talent; their insane ability to stomp and beat anyone or anything into the ground without breaking a sweat (they will explain in utmost detail to these Hell Demons as to why they are beating them in accordance with the Bully Handbook).
